Health and Beauty

There are thousands, indeed millions, of women who would give a great deal to lose just ten pounds and keep those ten pounds off. They have tried, and just can't seem to make the grade.

I have heard many people say they stayed with their diet for three, four or five days and did not lose a pound, so they considered their case hopeless and began to eat as they pleased again.

Aside from the possibility of having some organic reason for not being able to lose (and there are only a very small percentage of cases in this group) the chances are quite good that one of two situations may have kept these people from losing weight.

One is that losing weight is a very personal thing, and we all do it at a different rate of speed. There are many of us who must stick to a diet for as long as a week before we can really see results. We become discouraged after a few days, and give up.

Another and the most common cause are hidden calories. That bite of pie you could not resist at lunch, that small sip of coke, or that taste of buttered roll junior left on his plate, they all add up—and at the end of the day may be enough to prevent weight loss.

Alcohol intake is best cut off completely during a dieting period. There are tremendous numbers of calories in a drink containing alcohol. On top of this, it stimulates your appetite and dulls your snses, so you may, for the moment, not care if you do discard your diet.

You are making dieting much too hard for yourself when you take that social cocktail.

Any kind of fat contains concentrated calories, so you must watch your fat intake with care. Fried foods are out. However, your body needs some fat, so make sure it receives high-quality fat such as that found in butter, cheese, milk, and oleo.

Consult your doctor about your diet, or at lease let him read the diet you are planning on undertaking.

In FASHION now

Modern science and fashion designers continue to devise new materials for clothing and interlinings to make garments more attractive and becoming as well as more comfortable.

Newest item in this department is a plastic foam that insulates and has great warmth. A most important feature of this new material is the fact that there is no clumsiness for the wearer.

The fabric is featherweight and available in three thicknesses. The foam interlining is being used in everything from pajamas, (wonderful to sleep in), to rainwear and sports jackets.

Because of the different thicknesses, the thinnest being about one sixteenth of an inch, there is virtually no bulk. It is quilted in taffeta pajamas, for example.

Under woolens and other fabrics, the new lining helps shed wrinkles and holds the original shape of the garment. It will have special charm for back-to-school clothes.

The elimination of clamminess for the wearer is due to the construction of the foam. Thousands of tiny air cells permit the air to circulate through the fabric, or "breathe."

These new linings are easy to care for, and their cleaning is indicated by the actual fabric the garment lined is made of.

QUESTIONS OF THE WEEK

(Editor's note: Here are the questions asked most frequently by Virginia farmers during the past week, as reported by county agricultural agents. Staff members of the VPI Agricultural Extension Service and/or Experiment Station supply the answers.)

Q. Is dwarfism inherited in beef cattle?

A. Yes, and the trouble has been on the increase in recent years. The use of "clean" bulls — those which do not carry the dwarf gene —will help solve the problem. Unfortunately it is now an expensive and time - consuming matter to identify clean bulls. Scientists are now working on an easier method.

Q. Will heavy fertilization affect inoculation of alfalfa seed?

A. If the fertilizer comes in direct contact with the seed, it can have a harmful effect on both inoculation and germination.

Q. How long a dry period should dairy cattle have before they are ready to calve again?

A. At least 60 days. There will be a loss in production for every dry period is shortened under that. If a cow would produce 350 pounds of butterfat after a 60-day dry period, she will produce only around 315 pounds with a one-week dry period.

Q. When is the best time to seed a new lawn, and how much seed should I use?

A. Early fall seedings do best in Virginia. Sow 2 to 3 pounds of grass seed per 1,000 square feet. Scatter one-half in one direction and one-half in the opposite direction.

Q. When should sheep next be treated for internal parasite control?

A. In mid-November, about the time permanent pasture is finished.

Q. How and when should I fertilize my lawn?

A. On each 1,000 square feet of new lawn, spread 30 to 40 pounds of garden fertilizer such as 5-10-5 or 6-8-2 containing minor elements, if available; 15 to 25 pounds of ground limestone; and a liberal coating of compost. Work these materials into the soil, mixing thoroughly, to a depth of 4 to 5 inches. Use a disk or rotary tiller. Do not turn with a plow or spade. Then seed and mulch. Fall seedings usually do better than spring seedings in Virginia.

The best time to work on the old lawn is in late summer or early fall. Mow close and rake up loose grass. Apply fertilizer and a little lime and humus. Work these in, level the soil, and sow seed where needed. Rake, roll, and water. Apply some fertilizer each spring and fall.

Q. How should I store onions?

A. They will generally cure better if they are carried immediately after harvest to an airy, cool, dry storage place. It may be convenient to let the onions stay in the open air, with shade, until the tops are all dry. Then the tops can be cut off a half inch from the bulbs. The old-time plan of braiding the tops together and hanging the bunches in an airy shed is still one of the best as far as good keeping is concerned.

INSPECTION STICKERS

Richmond, Va.- "A cat may have nine lives but No. 9 inspection stickers expire permanently at midnight, September 30," said Captain R. B. King, State Police Safety Officer, today.

Motorists whose windshields bear this particular sticker will have only 30 days for reinspection, and Captain King stated that it would be definitely to their advantage to have it done early in the month rather than to delay and face a possible last-minute jam.

Those achieving inspection during the month of September will receive yellow stickers bearing the numeral 3, which designates the next inspection will be due before midnight of March 31, 1960.

Those delaying beyond the Sept. 30 deadline face arrest and denial of the use of their cars until they are inspected. In this connection, Captain King warned that when a driver is arrested for driving a car bearing an out-of-date sticker, he not only faces a court fine but cannot legally drive his car until it has been properly inspected. Also, he said, with a few exceptions, a car owner who has let the deadline pass cannot legally drive his car to an inspection station.

Commenting on the operation of the new system for inspection, he felt it had succeeded far beyond expectations with the one relatively minor exception that the May - November and the June - December periods are somewhat overcrowded due to many motorists waiting until May and June of 1959 to have their cars inspected. "Any motorist can iron out of these periods simply by having his car inspected during any month prior to his expiration month," he concluded.

KNOW THE WEATHER

By E. H. Sims

Why is it said that lightning is caused by updrafts? Is that true?

First, it is true that updrafts are the cause of lightning. So that is why the statement is heard. Warm updrafts are the most usual producers of this spring and summer lightning - electrical discharge.

Warm air rises and when it rises fast, and cools quickly, it builds up an electrical charge, which is eventually dissipated with a flash and a bang. The cumulonimbus (thunderhead) cloud is the source of strong, updrafts and lightning and thunder.

After the first big drops, and then the heavy rain, and after the low, dark leading edge of this giant cloud passes above you, at that time the danger of lightning striking you on the ground is greatest.

DOCTOR TALK

By John B. Rembert, M. D.

With polio epidemics occurring in different regions of the country it seems reasonable to assume that a large segment of our population either do not know that polio vaccinations should be obtained or else they simply are not concerned enough to receive the vaccinations.

To bring you up to date, the latest recommendations for polio vaccination will be reviewed, these recommendations having been reached after studying the data compiled since 1955. A review of the material chiefly reveals that the probability of contracting paralytic polio is reduced an average of 75 per cent for persons having received the basic 3 injections of Salk vaccine. This same data shows that many groups of children having received the initial 3 injections the probability of contracting polio has been reduced up to 90 per cent.

It is now recommended that all persons, except small infants, receive three doses of vaccine, the second injection following the first after a period of four to six weeks. Also, he said, with a few exceptions, a car owner who has let the deadline pass cannot legally drive his car to an inspection station.

If you are 40 years old or under and have already received the initial three injections of vaccine, the last being one year or longer ago, then you should obtain the booster injection or the fourth polio vaccination at this time.

For those parents with an infant less than six months of age, it is being advised that the polio vaccination be given at one month intervals, beginning at two to six months of age for a total of three injections. The infant's fourth injection or booster then flows in seven to twelve months as in older children and adults.

Suppose you have already had all your injections but plan a trip that will take you into an area where the polio incidence is high. Then a booster dose is advised if you have already had the series of three or even four injections. Another situation that may arise is the in which an epidemic occurs in your area .Then a booster dose of vaccine should be taken even if it has been only a month or two since your last dose, regardless of the number of previous doses you have received.

The paralytic form of polio is a dreadful disease that can affect all, rich or poor — but with the Salk vaccine now readily available medical science once again stands on the threshold of eradicating another scourge if only all will cooperate. Don't delay. Contact your family physician today for further information and advice.

800,000 CHILDREN IN SCHOOL

Richmond, Va.- Dr. Davis Y. Paschall, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and member of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee, today urged motorists to drive carefully and take every precaution to guard the safety of the 800,000 children who are returning to schools throughout Virginia this month.

Dr. Paschall said about 400,000 of these children will walk, ride bikeyles, or be taken to school in cars or public utility buses, and approximately 400,000 will be transported daily in some 4,600 public school buses.

He emphasized that Virginia law is very clear as to the responsibility of a motorist who approaches a bus which is loading or discharging school children on the highway. In such circumstances the motorist must come to a stop, regardless of the type of highway or direction of travel. He also must remain stopped until the highway is clear of children and the bus is in motion.

"We must face the fact that children sometimes don't stop and think in traffic," Dr. Paschall said, "which is all the more reason drivers must do their thinking for them." He also asked parents to explain clearly the hazards of traffic for youngsters on foot, riding bicycles and getting on or off buses.

Des Plaines, Ill.- When the local draft board sent him a call for induction into the army, Charles V. Bonille sent the summons back. He has been in the army for 36 years, and is stationed in Germany. The call was mailed to his home.
